Building Plans Outcome of Property Sale in This City

Realty Developments Here Follow Fast On Success of Big Sale

American Operators Moving Headquarters to Victoria to Get in on Market Now Developing; Offers of Profits on Auctioned Properties Grow.

TAX RATE TO BE REDUCED YEAR BY YEAR, TODD SAYS

After the whirlwind finish of the civic auction sale on Saturday, real estate developments followed fast on one another as the business week opened to-day.

H. R. Leach, the Los Angeles operator, who accumulated heavily, declared that the real estate market in Victoria was well under way now and announced that he was moving his headquarters here and opening an office at once.

"It is time to get in here now," Mr. Leach said. As he made this statement he made his first sale by deciding to accept an offer of substantial profits on the three lots he bought on Thursday at Cook and Southgate Streets. The purchaser is going to build on them.

An increased offer was made to R. K. Snow, the Los Angeles financier, for the three-story Allied Hotel, which he bought for $7,500 on Thursday and for which he had two offers of $1,500 profit on Friday and Saturday.

"The real estate move is starting Victoria right in the face," said Charles S. Austin, realty auctioneer, as he was checking up his list of sales. "Five years ago just after we were selling there, it hit Los Angeles and eventually ran its course. Then it jumped to Florida. Now it is moving here. Believe it or not, but some people will realize it too late. I can say from my experience of the situation here through this sale, that there are opportunities in Victoria now for investors with a few hundreds of dollars to make money. I think an amateur through this sale, as I have been through similar conditions in many other places."

OFFERS OF PROFIT
The Carmichael-Leeming syndicate were busy this morning dealing with offers of profit on some of the properties they accumulated during the two days' selling. They were offered $900 profit on the parcel of five stores at 2601 to 2609 Government Street, which they had knocked down to them for $2,100. For one of the lots they bought on Johnson Street they had an offer of $500 profit. The vacant property between Cormorant and Pandora Street below the city (Concluded on page 2)

MAYOR PREDICTS SECOND LAND SALE IN CITY

Price Schedule For City Lands to be Revised Upwards Shortly

"It is probable that the city will hold at least one more auction sale of real estate in the course of the next few months," said Mayor Pendray this morning, when expressing his pleasure at the results of the sale just closed.

"The main importance of the sale was not the prices secured, though these were better than a majority of the council had anticipated. The chief benefit is the emphatic endorsement out-of-town real estate operators have given the belief that, in the security they see to be excellent, and the prices have appealed to them as below what such properties merit."

PLENTY OF BARGAINS

"Many parcels sold at the auction for higher prices than the city is asking for similar lots, and while no changes in the price schedule are to be made immediately, I am sure that a revision upwards of the list will be undertaken shortly."

Over $48,000 worth of lands have been sold over the counter by the city lands department since the commencement of the present year, and Mayor Pendray expressed the belief that, in the remainder of the year a great increase in this business will be experienced.

IRISH BOUNDARY REPORT FORETOLD

One-tenth of Ulster Recommended to be Given to Free State

London, Aug. 31.—A forecast of the Irish Boundary Commission's report, which is to be published this week is made by The Daily Mail's Dublin correspondent, who says the Free States, if the plans should be adopted, would amount to about one-tenth of the present Ulster territory, while Ulster would receive in exchange only a small part of County Donegal from the Dublin Government.

The finding of the commission is said to be almost entirely the work of Justice Richardson Falkland of the South African Supreme Court, who was appointed with representatives of the Free State and Ulster to draw up the report, as the Irish delegates are understood not to have departed from the "die-hard" attitude of their Governments and were not willing to entertain a compromise.

The outline of the forecast gives the Free States almost the whole of the County of Fermanagh, without the town of Enniskillen, the greater portion of South Armagh with the town of Newry, and the Counties of Monaghan, Louth and South Down.

LONDONDERRY PLAN
The city of Londonderry would be left in Ulster, and in order to serve its economic function, a portion of Northeast Donegal would be transferred to the jurisdiction of Ulster.

The correspondent asserts that already sentiment in both sections of Ireland is dissatisfied, as the arrangements are for from meeting the claims of the Southern Government and Ulster already has declared she would resist to the last any attempt to adjust the border, however slightly.

The claim of the Free State included, in addition to all of the counties of Fermanagh and Tyrone, the city of Newry and the Sea of Armagh, the ancient St. Patrick and the present seat of the Roman Catholic Archbishop.

GOVERNMENT NOT PLANNING SALE OF BEER ITSELF

Idea Never Considered, Declares Premier, Denying Reports of New Policy

Private Members May Open up Whole Beer Question, Airing Protests

While private members of the Legislature may seek at the coming session of the Legislature to open up the whole question of beer sale by the glass, the Government has not even considered drastic changes in existing laws, Premier Oliver declared to-day.

"Never heard of it before," the Premier asserted when he was asked about reports that the Government intended to close up all private beer parlors and operate beer emporiums of its own. "The idea has never been considered."

Private members of the House, it is understood here, are not altogether satisfied with beer conditions as they exist at present, and are planning to speak their mind on the subject. A strong faction of members, it will be recalled, opposed the opening of beer bars last session but were outvoted. Attorney-General Manson himself led a spirited fight against private beer sale, which was discussed on a non-partisan basis.

It is known here that the chief difficulty confronting the liquor administration is to confine beer licenses to reasonable limits. The number of people who want to open beer bars in wet districts is amazing. If the Liquor Commission granted the requests of half the people who apply for licenses beer bars, it is stated, would be scattered in multitudes all over Vancouver and other wet cities.

ITALIAN SUBMARINE IS BELIEVED LOST OFF COAST OF SICILY

Not Seen Since Last Tuesday; Was Then Engaged in Manoeuvres

FATE OF SAILORS AS YET UNKNOWN

Unavailing Search Made by Destroyers, Submarines and Dirigibles

Rome, Aug. 31.—The Italian submarine, Sebastiano Venerio, disappeared during last week's naval manoeuvres off Sicily, and has not been heard from since. An official announcement to-day says destroyers, submarines and motor-boats have searched the Sicilian coast day and night since the disappearance of the submarine, but without success.

The submarine was ordered to lie in ambush off the East coast of Sicily between Cape Passero and Cape Murro di Porto during the manoeuvres, and when last seen on Tuesday, was en route to fulfill this assignment. She was commanded by

CANADA'S EXPORTS GROW AND IMPORTS DECREASE

Ottawa, Aug. 31.—Canada's export trade showed an advance and her import trade a reduction during the twelve months ended July 31. Imports were $817,000,000, a drop of $33,000,000. Exports were $1,093,000,000, an increase of $27,000,000.

GREAT INTEREST CENTRES TO-DAY IN CABINET MEETING IN OTTAWA WHILE PEOPLE DISCUSS ELECTION

Ottawa, Aug. 31.—The Cabinet is to meet this afternoon. Premier King is expected to be present and practically all his fellow Ministers will be in attendance.

The meeting promises to be an important one, politically. It derives interest from the fact that the decision of the Government for or against dissolution and an early general election may be made, if not announced. Expectation of a general election at the end of October or early in November seems to be growing stronger as the days pass with no announcement from the Government. At any rate, it is felt the present week will decide and that the Premier will announce the decision when he addresses an audience of his constituents at Richmond Hill, North York, Ontario next Saturday.

While those expecting an election hesitate to make a formal statement, opinion here seems to be that it will take place in the last week of October or the first week in November.

EX-FOOTBALL PLAYER FACES MANSLAUGHTER CHARGE IN ENGLAND

London, Aug. 31.—In spite of the verdict of the coroner to the effect that there was insufficient evidence to show negligence, George W. Elliot, ex-Middlesbrough football player, who figured in international games in 1913 and 1920, was charged with manslaughter in connection with the death of an Italian boy, aged eleven. The boy was knocked down by an automobile driven by Elliot, and unknown to the driver, the boy's body was carried underneath the body of the car for eleven miles before it was discovered. Elliot was remanded on bail. He declared his anxiety to meet the charge to which he said he could give a complete answer.

Miss Ida Day of West Vancouver, a member of the dance party to which young St. Clair belonged, escaped a similar fate through the quick action of W. A. Sparks, 1335 Cypress Street, who jumped overboard to her rescue when she fell in off the boat with St. Clair. Thomas Yates, The Atlin, Captain Thomas Yates, was carrying fourteen young men and women from the city to a dance on Bowen Island and when entering Howe Sound the boat is said to have

FELL DEAD AT SHAWINIGAN LAKE CAMP YESTERDAY

William Armstrong Was at Dinner When Seizure Took Him; Was Ailing

William Armstrong, of 402 Jessie Street, Victoria West, died suddenly yesterday afternoon at the Summer camp of his daughter Irene, while seated at the dinner table a few minutes after 1 o'clock. His daughter and a guest rushed to assist him when he collapsed where he sat, and found that he was dead. Mr. Armstrong had been ailing for some time, it is said. He was a widower.

"William Armstrong was a highly valued employee of the company," said George M. Gripp, of the B.C. Electric Railway Company, this morning. "Every member of the staff and all of his associates are deeply grieved to hear of his passing yesterday. He was a faithful, trusted and valuable man, was for years foreman of the car barns, and an excellent master mechanic, and we remember him as a staunch friend and faithful workman."

Men of the car barns and cars, fellow employees for many years of Mr. Armstrong, heard of his passing with regret.

His two daughters, Irene and Ethel, orphaned by his death, are both residents of this city, and are to-day the recipients of many condolences.

Arrangements for the funeral will be made and announced shortly.

DELEGATES OF LABOR HEARD PREMIER KING

Annual Convention of Trades Congress of Canada Addressed by Prime Minister

Ottawa, Aug. 31.—Premier King, on behalf of the Government of Canada, this morning welcomed the delegates of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada to Ottawa for the forty-first annual convention of the organization, and specially welcomed the two fraternal delegates from the Trades Union Congress of Great Britain and the American Federation of Labor of the United States.

The presence of a representative of the British workers, he said, was a mark of the happy relationship which existed between Canada and the United States was largely due to the bonds of understanding between the workers of the two countries.

SAVE COMMON INTERESTS
The Government, said the Prime Minister, appreciated the manner in which the problems of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada were presented to him. The Government met with the representatives of the Congress, not to discuss differences, but to find ways and means in which the common interests could be served. The Government, in dealing with many problems, must deal with them one at a time and make progress by degrees.

Premier King recalled that the last occasion on which he addressed a session of the Trades and Labor Congress in Ottawa was twenty-five years ago, when he was appointed as editor of The Labor Gazette, which was one of the beginnings of the Federal Labor Department. (Concluded on page 2)

BREADWINNING FOR 500,000 WILL STOP WHEN MINERS IN U.S. COALFIELD CEASE TO WORK

To-morrow All Anthracite Mines in Pennsylvania Will be Idle, With Only Maintenance Men on Duty; Wages and Working Conditions Cause of Dispute; Some of Washington Officials of Opinion Strike Will Not Last More Than Two Months.

Philadelphia, Aug. 31.—The widely heralded suspension of work in the anthracite field in Northeastern Pennsylvania will become effective at midnight to-night. The strike of twelve will mark the expiration of the two-year working contract of 158,000 miners, who have been unable to agree with the mine owners upon its renewal and who decline to work until some renewal is negotiated.

The walk-out will place a virtual padlock upon 828 rich mines. It will involve in addition to the bulk of the miners a great number of their dependents. Those from whom bread winning will stop are estimated at 500,000. A skeleton force of about 8,000 maintenance men will remain in the pits, by mutual agreement. They will be assessed a day's pay every two weeks for the union's emergency fund.

RAIL MEN WILL SUFFER
Something like 10,000 railroad men who are employed in the handling of coal shipments, in local shops and on car repair work probably will be thrown out of work by the shutdown.

The suspension will be practically 100 per cent effective, operators and miners agree. The region has been thoroughly organized by the union and the handful of men the union has permitted its members to associate with despite the lack of union buttons is expected to quit as well.

GOOD ORDER EXPECTED
No disorder is anticipated, at least at the outset. A Government official contemplates no picketing and the owners, so far as can be learned, are not importing non-union help.

First steps of the suspension have already taken place. At many mines the contract miners quit work Saturday after "blowing down" enough coal to keep their laborers occupied for the remainder of the contract. Many of the heavy tools have been removed by the men and stored away against such time as a new contract is signed.

To-day many of the mine workers are preparing to set out for the soft coal fields on the hunt for other jobs.

Washington, Aug. 31.—Government officials here to-day expressed the opinion that the strike in the anthracite fields of the United States called to begin to-morrow morning would last about two months and that then the force of public opinion would force either the miners or the operators to "crack." In the meantime the country is surprisingly well off with regard to its coal supply.

Government officials believe the country has the largest surplus of hard and soft coal in bins and storage yards it has had in the last ten years. There is no danger of a fuel famine for months to come, strategic points like the Great Lakes region and New England having ample supplies to tide them over the strike period, officials said.

PRICE QUESTION
No sharp advance in coal prices is anticipated as a result of the strike. Seasonal advances will, be made, but any attempt to "panic" prices would be sternly met by Government agencies, it was indicated. (Concluded on page 2)

FAVORABLE WEATHER AIDS HARVEST MEN ON PRAIRIES

Winnipeg, Aug. 31.—Weather conditions in the prairie provinces over the week-end were ideal and with a continuance of such weather in prospect for to-morrow, indications are for the harvesting operations, according to the weekly crop report of the Canadian National Railways to-day. Last week the weather improved and as a result harvesting started at many points throughout the provinces.

While there are reports of loss from rust at many points on the C. N. R. the wheat yield on the whole will be average or better. Many points estimate twenty-five to thirty bushels an acre, with scattered good fields likely to turn out better.

Late crops are doing splendidly and little frost has been reported, farmers being hopeful of harvesting those crops without loss.

Early samples of wheat threshed and marketed are grading No. 2 and 3. Labor is plentiful and conditions generally are good.

"As I look back on those twenty-five years and think of the twenty-five years to come, it does inspire me with hope for industrial right and industrial relations in this country," he said.

CREDIT TO GENERATION

Canada, young as it was, was beginning to work out a labor history which would be a credit to this generation, he said. The Department of Labor, in emphasizing the consideration of labor's point of view, had been a factor in a real forward growth. It was such growth as should inspire every person associated with organized labor to take courage in the service of his fellow men.

Premier King emphasized the necessity for the right attitude of labor relations. The manner in which the Trades and Labor Congress presented its resolutions to the public and the Government was the right attitude for the representatives of labor, and would lead to the betterment of all.

Ottawa, Aug. 31.—The forty-first annual convention of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada was opened here this morning by J. A. P. Haydon, president of the Allied Trades and Labor Association of Ottawa. Mr. Haydon expressed the hope that the congress would meet its problems fearlessly and demonstrate to Canada that "Labor knows what it wants and that its policies are sound."

MURDOCK SPOKE

Major J. P. Barthrie welcomed the congress to the capital. Mr. James Murdoch, Minister of Labor, said he regretted he had been unable to attend the former convention of the congress since he had become a minister. His thoughts, he said, had been with the congress during the past few years, and he knew the convention delegates had thought of him. The Minister's comment brought roars of laughter, recalling attacks made on him last year.

Mr. Murdoch outlined his aims as head of his department. Errors were made, but every effort was made to safeguard the interests of labor and to see that labor got a square deal, he said.

Mr. Murdoch looked forward to the time when Labor, in certain respects, would get a square deal than it was getting at the present time.

ADDRESS BY PREMIER

Premier King would endeavor, he said, to assume the chair later in the day, though he was unable to be present at the opening.

Tom Moore, president of the congress, was representative of the chief industrial centres of Canada were represented and the registration was larger than the meeting of last year in London, Ontario, although not yet complete.

Ottawa, Aug. 31.—The bitterness of those who do not believe in organized labor movement and the continued vilification of trade union officials in general have increased in intensity during the past year and a half, and the delegates to the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada, presented to the delegates at the forty-first annual convention of the organization in Ottawa to-day.

The resources of the Trades and Labor Congress, it was stated, had been strained to the limit in combating the spirit of reaction so prevalent. Notwithstanding that the Parliament of Canada and provincial legislatures have been made and attacks upon existing legislation successfully repelled."

EIGHT-HOUR DAY

The executive council recommended to the delegates its adoption of the platform calling for an eight-hour day, unemployment insurance, old age pensions, abolition of the Senate, and a non-selective basis, and one day's rest in seven.

The executive report stated that the time has arrived when amendments to the British North America Act should be secured which would give greater authority to the Parliament of Canada and bring about more centralization of our laws which vitally affect the conditions of wage-earners in this country, and that is only by such a step that any essential special reform can be brought about and made equally applicable to all citizens of Canada."

DAY OF REST

It was recommended by the executive that new legislation be secured granting one day's rest in seven, and that existing legislation on the basis of Sunday observance.

WORLD UNION PROPOSAL

Ottawa, Aug. 31.—A world union, comprising all trade union organizations in the world, with a central control empowered to call world strikes and assess the workers of the entire world to finance it, is the subject of a resolution passed at a meeting of the Canadian Labor Party, which was in session here Saturday and Sunday.

Vancouver, was the first property to be put up Saturday. It was knocked down for $1,150 to E. W. Kusile, of Seattle. Mrs. M. Paige, of New Zealand, bought the last lot of the sale. Over twenty-five per cent. of the property put up at the sale went to outsiders, Mr. Austin said.

As the last lot was knocked down in the big test Saturday evening, a woman came forward in the crowd and presented a bouquet to Mrs. Austin with a basket of roses for Baby Austin. She thanked Mr. Austin for all he had done for the city, explaining that she had been one of the opponents of the Austin sale, but had now changed her mind.

The Carmichael-Leeming syndicate bought for $500 each the four lots, each 60 by 120 on View Street, between Cook and Ormond. James Hayter is negotiating for them as sites for a series of bungalow courts. Each of these lots was assessed at $1,750 to $1,750.

Lot 50 by 120 on Discovery, between Government and Douglas, assessed at $4,200, went for $450.

Lot 60 by 120 on Johnson, between Douglas and Blanshard, assessed at $10,900, went for $1,000.

Lot 60 by 120 on Pandora Avenue, between Blanshard and Quadra, assessed at $4,750, went to Bishop and Whittington for $1,125.

Southwest corner of Bushby and Eberia, assessed at $940, went for $300.

Southeast corner of Linden and May, assessed at $1,450, went for $525.

Southeast corner of May and Wellington, assessed at $1,350, went for $400. The adjoining lot on May also went for $400.

Four lots each, 56 by 126 on May, between Linden and Howe, each assessed at $1,800, went for $500, $400 and $475 each.

Northwest corner of Oxford and Moss assessed at $410, went for $500.

Southwest corner of Richardson and Moss, assessed at $1,710, went to F. Landsberg for $1,000.

Northeast corner of Hollywood and Macdonald, assessed at $850, went for $450.

Two lots with two houses on them, with 140 feet frontage on Menzies and 50 on Michigan, embracing all except the store at the corner, went for $1,400.

Lot 50 by 91 on Blanshard, between North Park and Flagg, went for $850.

Lot 50 by 120 on Flagg, between Douglas Street, embracing the southwest corner of Princess and Douglas, with a rented house on it, all went for $1,300.

Lot 4725 View Street, 50 by 120, between Blanshard and Quadra, went for $900 to a Los Angeles syndicate.

Northwest corner of Discovery and Blanshard went to Carmichael syndicate for $750.

No. 322 Pandora Avenue, between Vancouver and Quadra, 60 by 120, went for $1,750.

No. 1024 Pandora, between Vancouver and Cook, 66 by 120, went for $1,750.

No. 1028 View Street, 60 by 120, between Vancouver and Cook, went to Carmichael syndicate for $850.

No. 951 Fort Street, between Quadra and Vancouver, 50 by 112, went for $2,150.

Frigate Captain Paolo Vandore, who saw extensive service during the World War, and was considered one of the best experts on undersea craft in the Italian navy.

BUILT IN 1917
The submarine built under the Italian naval programme of 1924, was 213 feet in length, had an armament of six torpedo tubes and two four-ton-pounder guns and had a cruising radius on the surface of 1,500 miles. She displaced 747 tons on the surface and 925 tons submerged.

Harry St. Clair, the unfortunate victim of the tragedy, is a native son of Victoria, and lived in this city until the family moved to Vancouver about twelve years ago. His father, Capt. St. Clair, was formerly connected with the sealing industry here, but at present is running a small boat out of Vancouver. His mother, Mrs. St. Clair, is a prominent member of the Order of the Eastern Star, and two years ago was Grand Matron for this Province.

Rumors that John L. Lewis would call out the bituminous miners to help win the anthracite strike were discounted here to-day. The Jacksonville syndicate, under which the bituminous union miners are working, will not expire until 1927.

"Any attempt to call out the bituminous miners to aid their brethren in the anthracite fields would defeat its own ends," a high official said.

 Ottawa—From

 he held.

Vancouver—From the same source showed a same period runs in value to they $25,000,000. The Domin
 therefore, is materially inter
 in the conflict which has de creased between the operators and employees in the coal industry of the sub-bic and which is expected to dominate in a strike in the anthra cite mines to-morrow. Although the bituminous, or soft coal, mines
 are not directly involved in the dis
 cre, it is predicted that the em ployees there will go out in support of the workers in the anthracite fields.

Negotiations have been going on
 between the operators and em ployees in the anthracite mines since July 9, when representatives of the miners demanded a ten per cent.
 increase in wages for tonnage men,
 an extra dollar a day for day work
 men, and the adoption of the "check
 off" system under which the com panies undertake the collection of dues of union members in their employ to be turned over to the union treasury. The operators have flatly refused these demands, but have suggested a reference to ar bitration, which the miners declined to accept. J. L. Lewis, their presi dent, claiming that it cost the min ers sixty millions of dollars in wages
 in two years to learn how the op erators "kept close to the arbitrator."
 Not many outsiders will accept this statement with its cynical implica tion at its face value, but in any case so far prospects of arbitration
 are pretty slim and a big strike
 seems to be assured.

A considerable part of central Canada, chiefly Ontario, Manitoba
 and Saskatchewan, will be affected
 seriously by a strike in the Ameri can coal fields, if it is prolonged into the winter. While deliveries of coal from Pennsylvania and West Virginia to the chief Cana dian points of distribution so far have been up to normal, and the coal mine operators have a consider able surplus on hand, there is bound to be a sharp curtailment of the Canadian supply in the event of a long suspension of work. In the long run this disability might prove a blessing in disguise in forcing Canada to utilize her own ample resources of coal in such a way as to make her independent of any outside sources of supply.

HOVEL HAPPINESS

GREAT BRITAIN'S
 housing problem is by no
 means confined to such considera tions as the cost of materials and labor, whether the ranks of the building trades shall be diluted by unskilled workers or not, but by considerations which revolve about
 the human element—a sort of lov ing attachment for villas or hovels
 that were erected anywhere from seventy-five to more than one hun dred years ago.

In the Limehouse Town Hall the other day a scheme for demolishing
 a large slum area in this section of the East End of London was out lined to the residents who would be involved if the proposal were adopted. No sooner had the meet ing got under way than a member of the audience asked the assembled hundreds if they were satisfied with their homes—and the answer was an almost deafening chorus in the affirmative. The medical officer of health for the neighborhood ex pressed the opinion that most of the houses slated for destruction are more than hovels and about
 as they could well
 be called. The crowd would have preferred them to the hovels of the future.

CANADA GOING STRONG

SEVERAL ITEMS IN THE
 news last Saturday should cheer the people of this Province
 who are interested in the develop ment of our natural resources.
 Reports from all quarters indi cate that the mining industry, not at all dependent upon a sensational boom, is attracting a good deal of attention from large and influential concerns that represent stability in the mining market. Some of these are in Canada, some in the United States, and, after considerable hesi
 tation, Old Country capitalists are turning their eyes towards the proven possibilities of British Col umbia.

It is also pointed out that a marked improvement in the lumber business has been noted during the last few weeks. Additional crews are being sent into the woods and quite a number of mills are work ing double shifts. This is accounted for in some measure by the in creased demand from Australia and New Zealand, while the activities of Lumber Commissioner Brown in Great Britain are held responsible for the growing popularity over there
 of the woods of this Province.
 Then it should be remembered that as a result of what bids fair to be a fine harvest at good prices the demand for lumber in the Prairie Provinces towards the end of the Fall should give promise of a much more prosperous winter season than
 we have experienced for years.

On top of these encouraging signs is the certainty that Canadian apples will take a prominent place
 in the markets of the Old Country very shortly by reason of the British crop failure. Advantage of this situation will no doubt be taken through the medium of the British Government's "All-Empire Buying Campaign." Well-placed advertis ing under its aegis should obtain
 Canada a good slice of the trade.
 Australian fruit posters, at the ex pense of the Australian Govern ment, literally smothered Britain last year.

All these are tangible signs of good business ahead. They fit in with the general revival of economic conditions which has been more noticeable than ever of late.

AVOID SILLY THINGS

OF SPECIAL IMPORT ance for consideration at the next session of the House is the subject of reorganization of the forest protection service on lines
 which the Minister of Lands con sidered practical some years ago; a proposal which was considered al
 together too visionary at the time
 because its critics were totally un able to give their imaginations any rein. Mr. Pattullo persuaded the Government to hire an aeroplane
 for a trial of patrol from the air.
 The machine crashed through the roof of a residence in Vancouver—
 as machines will continue to crash,
 just as ships will run foul of un
 expected obstacles and railway trains
 leave the metals without warning—
 and friends and opponents of the plan delivered judgment which they considered should be final. There was nothing visionary in the scheme.
 It was practical then and it is more practical now. Other prov inces with less timber to protect,
 timber more accessible, than British Columbia have adopted the aerial patrol system. Surely this year's experience with forest fires, more than two thousand of them, has taught us something in this connec tion.

An item of news from Kamloops
 on Saturday likewise suggests an other important matter with which the Legislature should deal as ef fectively as possible in order that the farmers of the dry belt may get relief next year. This is a promise
 from the Minister of Agriculture
 that better facilities will be fur nished in 1926 for fighting the grasshopper pest. People who live at the Coast and see only a few
 "hoppers" on the drier ground have no conception of the tremendous amount of damage the little animals
 do when they invade the hot and arid districts in army formation and literally clean up everything green
 in their path.

MORE "RED FROTH"

NOBODY IN BRITAIN

will be alarmed over the latest outburst from Mr. Shapurji Saklatvala. Everybody knows that he is an implacable enemy of the Union Jack and what he chooses to call British Imperialism.
 But what he said about them both
 at the Conference of the "Nati onal Minority Party" at Batter sea on Saturday he has said many times before. He and his few friends, who find the British Com munist Party nothing less radical enough for them, would like to re
 make the world according to their own particular pattern. There are,
 however, quite a lot of people in the Old Country who have not the slightest intention of permitting them to have their way. In the meantime Mr. Saklatvala's advertis ing methods flatter his vanity and no doubt help to detract somewhat from the sense of loneliness which he must experience as the single re presentative of this extremely small
 "red" section of Britain's society in the House of Commons at West minster. There his voice is a voice crying in the wilderness with a ven geance. Little harm will come of his activities either in or outside Parliament. It is none the less un fortunate that he should have been selected as a member of the British Parliamentary Party which will visit
 the United States and Canada in October. It was surely unneces sary to include him even to adver tise to the world that the tolerant spirit of British custom is still very much alive. Incidentally, Mr.
 Saklatvala will have to mind his
 p's and q's in the neighboring re
 public, the United States Govern ment having its own ideas about gentlemen who want to rewrite its constitution. "Jim" Larkin, also present at the Battersea meeting,
 had cause to remember this in 1919.
 Criminal anarchy got him into trou ble and after four years Governor
 Smith of New York pardoned him
 and shot him out of the country.

Members of the Uplands Golf Club
 entertained a team from the Point
 Grey Golf Club yesterday, and won an all-day match by a score of 15
 to 11. In the singles in the morn ing Uplands scored 64 points to Point Grey's 26, while in the fourball matches in the afternoon Uplands
 triumphed by a score of 15 to 11.
 The result being 45-15. The total for the day was: Uplands 109, Point Grey 41.

Several weeks ago the Uplands
 players visited Vancouver and lost
 the decision by 15 points. They more than atoned for that loss yesterday.
 An exceptionally good heat ball
 score was turned in by R. J. Darcus and P. Edmonds in their game with Murray and Gross. It was as fol lows:

WHO'S WHO IN HISTORY TO-DAY

MONDAY, AUGUST 31

CALIGULO

Notorious Roman Emperor, was born on August 31, 12 A.D. He was a nephew of Tiberius, whom he succeeded, and was accused of having caused his death. The early years of his reign were marked by moderation, but the later years
 were conspicuous for cruelty and licentiousness. He was a little short of madness. He had himself worshipped as a god, and elevated his horse to the consulship.

COMMODOUS

Disreputable Roman Emperor, the son of the illustrious Marcus
 Aurelius, was born on August 31, 161 A.D. Succeeding his father,
 he bought peace from the Germans
 at the price of a tribute, and, turn ing the direction of the govern ment over to favorites, gave him self up to dissipation and cruelty.
 He is said to have appeared as a gladiator in the amphitheatre over seven hundred times against de fenceless opponents. He also posed as Hercules and demanded to be worshipped as such.

JOHN BUNYAN

Celebrated English writer, famous
 as the author of "The Pilgrim's Progress," died on August 31, 1688.
 The son of a tinker, he received a meagre education and followed his father's trade until he joined a non-conformist body and traveled throughout England as a preacher.
 He was arrested under the statute against non-conformists, and was held in prison nearly twelve years.
 During which he wrote his master piece.

BAUDELAIRE

(Pierre Baudelaire) distinguished
 French poet of the 19th century.
 He was born on August 31, 1821.
 He was a poet of the "decadence,"
 and his work was characterized by a sense of the grotesque and the macabre.

Brief News From Canadian Points

Cloverdale, B.C.—Escaping with but a few articles of clothing, J. Carter, owner of the Green Timbers Tea Gardens, his wife and daughter, watched their tourist tea and dance pavilion burn. The loss is estimated at $15,000. A passing motorist warned them of their danger.

Wardner, B.C.—A boy picked up an overcoat on a public highway here, finding in a pocket a wallet containing several hundred dollars. The overcoat and money were subsequently claimed by a touring motorist who rewarded the boy with twenty cents.

Ottawa—Foul play is suspected in the drowning of W. E. Moore, a Toronto business man, whose body was recovered from the Ottawa River. He was known to have money on him when he left his hotel on Wednesday. When the body was found the pockets were empty. An inquest will be held.

Vancouver—Police here got a shock when two pedestrians, knocked down by an automobile, admitted they were in the wrong, and that their injuries were due to their own bad judgment in crossing the street.

Vancouver—Radio has proved a great benefit to the work of the church in British Columbia and resulted in many people again taking an interest in Christian work. Rev. Dr. J. R. Silcox, told the congregation of the United Church of Canada (Congregational) here Sunday in a farewell sermon. He afterwards left for Montreal.

Montreal, Que.—Provincial detectives are attempting to establish the facts surrounding the mysterious death of Loy Chew Yuen of Three Rivers, whose body was found floating in the Riviere des Prairies at Montreal North. A cut on the left eye is engaging the attention of the experts in an attempt to find out how and when the injury was inflicted. Robbery was declared not to have been the motive, if the victim was murdered, as some $30 in cash was found in the pockets, as well as immigration and other papers, showing the address and telling that Loy came to Canada in 1918. The corpse had apparently been in the water about forty-eight hours.

Vancouver—An appeal from a small boy to rescue his cat, which had perched on the roof of a neighboring house for thirty-six hours, was answered by firemen from the Nelson Street Station here. A rope ladder was thrown to the roof and the brigade captain made the rescue. Later the small boy returned to the fire hall with a large home-cooked cake—the firemen's reward.

Toronto—Canadian churches are fast becoming effective because of their bigotry and ignorance, the opinion of Rev. Dr. M. S. Rainford, former Toronto clergyman, now of Connecticut, expressed here in an interview. "You have had a union of three churches," Dr. Rainford said, "and I see the head of the United Church is reported to have said, 'Now that we are united, we shall be able to strengthen the Sunday blue law.' That is not Christianity—it is the subjection of Christian principles to tradition and legalism. That is the sort of downright bigotry which is driving young people from the church to-day." Dr. Rainford was at one time assistant of St. James's Cathedral, Toronto.

Vancouver—Jewels valued at $4,000 and cash amounting to $250 were stolen from the residence of F. A. Ashton, Point Grey, when burglars ransacked the house Saturday afternoon. The loot included a $1,500 diamond brooch. The robbers, who had gained entrance through a rear door by means of a pass key, overlooked a jewel box containing $2,000 worth of gems. The stolen articles were insured. The robbery was carried out between 2 p.m. and 5 p.m. Saturday, while the Ashton family were attending a baseball game.

Ottawa—Germany is buying more Canadian goods. In the twelve months ended July 31, Canadian exports to Germany were $32,435,268, an increase of $14,069,000. Canadian purchases in Germany were $4,935,265, an increase of less than $1,000,000.

Vancouver—If plans of seventy leading business men of Vancouver mature, the British Columbia provincial income tax will be reduced by one-third and estates valued up to $25,000 passing to near relatives will be exempted from succession duties. A memorial to the Provincial Finance Minister has been drafted, and a meeting of the Associated Property Owners will be held this week to pass upon it. Revision of succession duties to relieve from taxation estates held outside the Province by persons who die in British Columbia also will be urged.

Ottawa, Aug. 31—Rapid work on the part of Ottawa police resulted in the arrest of two Montreal men Saturday evening just forty-five minutes after the Dominion store at 439 Rideau Street had been held up and robbed of $29,611 by the same two men. Arrested and confronted with the storekeeper, the two men admitted the theft, police state. The men are Ernest Whitticker and Richard Rye. With them was arrested Whitticker's wife, who is held on a vagrancy charge.

PRINCE AT BANQUET IN BUENOS AYRES

Buenos Aires, Aug. 31—Canadian Press Cable—The British colony here had the Prince of Wales as guest of honor at a banquet Saturday night just before the conclusion of his official stay in this city. The banquet was held in Prince George's Hall, a handsome building erected by the British residents to commemorate the visit of King George as a young prince in 1881. Most of the toast virtues of the British race and the friendly relations between the two countries in celebration of the centenary of the Treaty of Amity and Commerce. But the Prince devoted much of his talk to sports and sportsmanship and the skill of the Argentine polo team. He spoke also of the generous hospitality of Argentina.

FREDERICK C. CHURCH INJURED BY AUTO

Husband of Former Muriel Vanderbilt Now Lies in Hospital in Boston

Boston, Aug. 31—Silence with which the members of his family had surrounded Frederick C. Church, Jr., former Harvard gridiron star, who was found unconscious in a street here Friday morning, was partly lifted last night, when his wife, the former Muriel Vanderbilt, issued a statement from Massachusetts General Hospital, where Mr. Church was taken.

Mrs. Church said her husband had been at a theatre and later at a party at a hotel.

So far as we have been able to learn, Frederick left the hotel for his home alone, the statement said.

"Near Kenmore station he was into a lunch room and was on his way to his apartment from there when struck by a passing automobile as he was crossing the street. He was heavily on the side of his head. The car failed to stop and Mr. Church is unable to give any description of it."

The policeman who found Church, Mrs. Church told newspapermen, informed her as well as his superior officers, that "Mr. Church was not under the influence of liquor and his doctors have also informed us that they found nothing to indicate he had been drinking."

Mother of Late Lord Northcliffe Dies at Ripe Age

London, Aug. 31—Mrs. Alfred Harmsworth, eighty-six, mother of the late Lord Northcliffe and a family famous in the annals of journalism, died at her residence, Poynter's Hall, Totteridge, Herts. She is survived by seven sons and three daughters.

BEDTIME STORY

Uncle Wiggily and the Apple Tree

Copyright, 1925, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate
(By Howard R. Garis)

"Oh, Nurse Jane! Will you please make us an apple pie?" begged Jingle, one of the little rabbit girls, as she saw Uncle Wiggily's muskrat lady housekeeper in the kitchen of the hollow stump bungalow.

"Make us a cute little pie so we can have a play party," added Jangle, who was Jingle's sister.

"How can I make an apple pie when I have no apples?" asked Miss Purzy Wuzzy. "If your mother or Uncle Wiggily says it's all right I will make you two pies—but first I must have apples!"

"We'll get them for you," offered Jingle.

"And we'll ask Daddycums-Uncle Wiggily if it's all right for you to do some baking," said Jangle.

"Mother has gone downtown to the six and seven cent store to help Mrs. Twistytail, the lady pig, buy a new watermelon striped dress."

Pretty well knowing what Uncle Wiggily would say, Nurse Jane got ready to bake the pie as soon as the little rabbit girls should bring back the apples. As for Jingle and Jangle, they hopped around until they found the shade of a big toadstool, and they tickled his pink twinkling nose.

"Gurra! Gurra!" laughed Uncle Wiggily as he gave himself a shake, feeling the tickling. "What's the matter now? Is it snowing?"

"Snowing on such a hot day as this! Ho! Ho!" shouted Jangle.

"We want you to come and help us hunt some apples so Nurse Jane will make us a pie," said Jangle.

"All right!" agreed Uncle Wiggily. Over the fields and through the woods hopped the old gentleman bunny and the two little girl bunnies, and they sniffed with their noses, until, all of a sudden Jingle cried:

"I smell an apple tree!"

And Jingle cried: "I see an apple tree!"

"Then the next thing to be done," said Uncle Wiggily, "is to get the apples down off the tree so Nurse Jane can make a pie."

"Perhaps there are some apples on the ground," suggested Jingle.

But not a one had fallen, though the tree branches, high over the heads of the rabbits, were loaded with apples.

"How are we going to get them down?" asked Jingle. "Can you climb the apple tree, Daddycums?"

"Being a rabbit I am not a very good climber unless I have a ladder," answered Mr. Longears.

"Perhaps if we wait long enough the tree will drop some apples down to us."

So they waited, but no apples fell to the ground for them to pick up, and finally Jangle exclaimed:

"I'll go get Johnnie or Billie Bushytail, the squirrels. They are fine tree climbers, and they will scramble up and gnaw off some apples for us. Or maybe I could get Tommie Kat, the pussy boy."

"Why not wait until the circus

comes, and then get the elephant to pick up some apples in his long nose of a trunk?" asked Uncle Wiggily with a laugh.

"I am afraid, my dears," he went on, "that we shall get no apples to-day. If the wind blew it might shake the tree and some apples would fall."

Then, all of a sudden, Jingle gave a happy little cry and said:

"Oh, I know how we can get some apples!"

"How?" asked her sister.

"We'll tickle the tree, just as we licked Daddycums," went on Jingle. "When the tree is tickled it will shiver and shake and down will fall the apples! Come on!"

No sooner said than done! Uncle Wiggily tickled and Jingle tickled and Jangle tickled the tree on its trunk. Then it shivered and shook and down fell a lot of apples, which the bunnies gathered up and from the apples Nurse Jane made three pies.

"Oh, I know how we can get some apples!"

"How?" asked her sister.

"We'll tickle the tree, just as we

Of course I am not saying but what the wind might have shaken the tree just as it was tickled, and perhaps the wind blew down the apples. But who can tell? Perhaps the tickling did it. You might try and see if it works out on your apple tree. Anyhow, if the automobile doesn't forget to put on its rubber shoes when it goes swimming in the rain, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and the leaky pail.

HIS (S)TORY
Does It Pay to Advertise?

When Columbus discovered America he advertised the fact, by shouting, "I'll show the World," and he did, just as they do to-day; settled back to Spain and was made a big cheese.

Wait Raleigh got wind of it, packed his grip and beat it to the Land of Milk and Honey; but when he got there the Mayor wasn't on the gang-plank to "shake," consequently the meeting of Chief Bloodspiller was of an impromptu character. So much so that Wait hooded it at a speed that stands as a world record and concealed himself behind a Potato Tree; after living on spuds and Chewing Tobacco for a considerable time he grew fat, and filling his pockets with his newly discovered Fruit and Tobacco Leaves, caught the Midnight Boat back to London.

Started to show the Big Guys his smoke, but they took it for Hot Air and threw cold water on him. He got rowdy, threw his coat in the mud, and finally was pinched and got it in the neck, like the chicken got the axe. He didn't advertise.

Yes, Advertising pays if promised, or truthfully and honestly carried out. Advertising gets the people but it is in the holding of your customers that the real work begins. Note our Prices—Call and see us—We'll show you how it is done.

REPORT DEALS WITH SPIRITUAL HEALING ZIONIST GROUPS IN LEADERSHIP CONTEST

Declared to be Outstanding Fact of Contemporary Religious Life
Vienna Dispatch Indicates Weizmann Will Continue to Direct Affairs

New York, Aug. 31.—Spiritual healing is an outstanding fact of contemporary religious life, declares the report of a joint commission to be presented to the general convention of the Episcopal Church at New Orleans in October. The commission, appointed to study the entire subject, commonly known as "Christian healing," says in its report: "The commission finds a rapidly increasing desire that the church confirm the belief that there is therapeutic value in the Christian religion. Religious healing is something apart from the one leaves off and the other begins. Faith in God and faith in physician must be blended for best results. Both minister and physician know that the power of healing is something apart from themselves; that their function in healing is to assist by restoring conditions—physical, moral and spiritual—under which this power may best operate. A fundamental principle is that God works and man works. Experiences teaches that God does not do for man what man is capable of doing for himself; that man's failure can thwart the accomplishment of God's purpose. Thus faith finds its appropriate place in co-operation with the law of God."

There is an indirect reference to the Christian Science Church in the following extract from the report: "We are challenged as to whether we shall allow this essentially Christian ministry to be sought outside, or whether we are to make it a normal part of the church's life. We must see to it that we do not afford a basis for another separatist movement, but should realize that the healing ministry is normal to the life of the church."

While the report contains no formal recommendations for specific action, some definite ones may be made to the convention.

PROVINCES MAKE STRIDES TOWARDS TAXATION UNITY

Winnipeg Conference Lays Foundation For Uniformity in Death Dues

Draft Plans to Eliminate Present Discrepancies Between Provinces

Substantial progress towards nation-wide uniformity in succession duty taxation was made by the recent inter-provincial conference on the subject in Winnipeg, Hon. J. D. MacLean, Minister of Finance, stated today on his return from this meeting. Recommendations drafted by the Winnipeg conference, he said, would be taken up at a conference next May when representatives of every province (except personal) actually situate within the Province, irrespective of its destination under the will or intestacy and irrespective of the domicile of the deceased.

Committees appointed in Winnipeg went into succession problems carefully and drafted detailed recommendations for future consideration. They were all designed to create greater uniformity all over Canada and to eliminate discrepancies now existing in succession duty taxation between the various provinces. One of the recommendations drafted outlines as a basic principle of succession duty taxation the following method of imposition:

OUTLINE METHODS

(a) A payment to be made as a condition of the granting of probate or letters of administration according to a rate based on the aggregate value of the estate, wherever situate, applicable to all property (real and personal) actually situate within the Province, irrespective of its destination under the will or intestacy and irrespective of the domicile of the deceased.

(b) A deferred payment to be made at the time of the distribution of the estate according to a rate based on the relationship of the beneficiary to the deceased and the value of the benefit received, applicable to all real estate within the Province, irrespective of the domicile of the deceased, and to all personal estate domiciled within the Province.

In the case of personal property as to which no duty is so payable at the time of probate or letters of administration the deferred payment to be made in respect of that property shall be according to an increased rate. And further resolution of the conference was that an alternative scheme, a committee be appointed to prepare a tentative draft inter-provincial agreement implementing the existing Succession Duty Acts by arbitrarily allocating personal estate for purposes of duty at the domicile of the donor, and the jurisdiction in which the property is situated, with a view to an equitable distribution of the provinces for purposes of taxation.

SUGGEST BRITISH LAW

The conference also favored uniformity in various other phases of succession duty taxation. It instructed a sub-committee to investigate the advisability of a scheme of reciprocal agreements between all provinces with a view to preventing multiple levies on any one estate.

Another resolution was that the conference should call for a recasting of the present succession duty laws on the basis of British law. Dr. MacLean, who is in charge of the scheme would eliminate the present probate tax and substitute an estate tax on that portion of the estate within the province. Then each beneficiary would pay a tax on his inheritance or succession duty tax on that portion of the estate to which he or she succeeded. This would prevent two provinces charging succession duty on the same estate. Both of these plans would mean a considerable loss of revenue to British Columbia.

SAANICH TAX SALE LIST IS RAPIDLY BEING LESSENED

Owners Rush to Withdraw Properties From Auction; Expect Record Small Sale

With the smallest tax sale list since 1912 in prospect, Saanich officials announce that less than 400 parcels will probably be put up for bidding at the annual tax sale, which opens at the Municipal Hall at 10 o'clock on Wednesday morning.

The list as originally compiled over 600 parcels, but redemptions have been extremely frequent over the week-end, the list standing this afternoon at less than 500 parcels. There are few block of sub-divided lots remaining in the sale, and it is apparent that the acreage tracts originally included in the sale will all be withdrawn before Auctioneer Sewell assumes his duties as auctioneer on Wednesday.

There is quite a real estate boom in the offing, judging by the inquiries at the Municipal Hall during the past few days," remarked Clerk Sewell.

Discussing disposal of Saanich municipal real estate, Reeve Macdonald expressed emphatic disapproval of any auction or on bloc sales.

"These lands we have acquired through tax sale proceedings are an extremely valuable asset, and will make much money for the municipality in the course of a few years," he remarked.

TAKES NINTH WIFE AT 81

Arkansas Doctor's Latest Bride, 21, is Older Than the Others

WALDRON, Ark., Aug. 31.—Marriage is generally classed as an institution. But sometimes it gets to be a regular habit.

In proof of this assertion is offered the case of Dr. Roberts Shaddon, who, having turned his eightieth year, has just taken to himself his ninth wife.

Dr. Shaddon's latest bride is Fannie Davis. She is twenty-one, and already she is ensconced in the three-room log cabin twenty-five miles from here where her eight predecessors lived before her.

Incidentally, she is older than any of the others were when they were married. Their ages on their respective wedding days ranged from fourteen to twenty.

SERVED IN ARMY

Aside from his marital experience, her husband has had quite a career, as Arkansas careers go.

He served in the Confederate army as a youth, and when peace was declared set up as a doctor in the country district heretofore.

He never bothered to go to a medical school, nor did he study medicine under any regular doctor. In fact, he admits he "just picked it up."

But his clients seem satisfied. They even tell how he fought a typhoid epidemic four years ago and let only one of his 100 patients die.

AND HE'S HAPPY

"I believe married life is the happiest life," he says. "My life has been happy. I'm not wealthy, but I'm very well pleased with my situation."

His matrimonial record follows in chronological order:

Mary Jane Ivy, eighteen, divorced; Lucy Smith, twenty, died; Nattie King, nineteen, died; Sallie Cook, nineteen, divorced; Lizzie Harris, twenty, died; Lulu McCullar, fourteen, divorced; Lizzie McCullar, her sister, fourteen, died; Viola Shars, fourteen, divorced; Fannie Davis, present wife, twenty-one.

VANDERBILT AFFAIR
PURE LOVE MATCH

New York, Aug. 31.—Confirmation of reports of the engagement of Miss Consuelo Vanderbilt, younger daughter of Mrs. William K. Vanderbilt II, to Earl E. T. Smith, young Yale student and son of Sydney J. Smith and Mrs. C. Whitney Carpenter Jr., were received from Newport, R.I., where Miss Vanderbilt is convalescing from a recent operation for appendicitis.

According to a spokesman for Mrs. Vanderbilt, the engagement was announced at Beachmont, the Vanderbilt family residence, that Miss Vanderbilt and Mr. Smith would be married in New York next winter. No definite time or place for the ceremony was given, but it was reported it would probably take place in St. Patrick's Cathedral in January.

Mrs. Vanderbilt is at Saratoga attending the races. The news of her daughter's engagement caused a flutter of excitement among the society folk gathered there, and Mrs. Vanderbilt was the pleased recipient of many congratulations and informality added her confirmation to the announcement of her daughter's engagement.

Miss Anna T. Smith and Miss Mildred M. Smith, distant cousins of the bridegroom-to-be, who are also at Saratoga, received a telegram from Miss Consuelo Vanderbilt telling them of the engagement.

Following close upon the marriage recently of her elder sister, Muriel, to Frederick Cameron Church Jr., the announcement of Miss Consuelo's engagement serves to emphasize the principles followed by Mrs. William K. Vanderbilt II in the rearing of her daughters.

She brought up both daughters with the idea that they should marry for love, and Consuelo's engagement to young Smith is said to be a "pure love match" just like her sister's marriage to Church.

Smith, who is living with his father at No. 449 Park Avenue, could not be found to comment on his engagement or his plans. He still has a year to go before he completes his studies at Yale, but it was said he does not plan to return this fall. His approaching marriage convinced him, it is said, that a man needs a job more than a college degree when he has a wife to support. He has been working during the last two months as a trader on the Coffee and Sugar Exchange, on which his father held a seat before he retired from business some time ago.

Mr. Smith's mother divorced his father in 1909 and subsequently married C. Whitney Carpenter Jr. She denied the earlier reports that her son was engaged to Miss Vanderbilt. She is spending the summer at Cliff Lawn, Newport.

INQUIRY UNCOVERS
BIG LAND FRAUDS

Warrants Issued in Chicago For Arrest of Five Florida Operators

Chicago, Aug. 31.—Federal warrants charging use of the mails with intent to defraud have been issued for Jacob Factor, president of the Florida Land Company, and several associates after a two-month investigation by postal inspectors.

The company is alleged to have done a business of between $1,000,000 and $1,500,000 in Florida real estate since its incorporation in Springfield last March. Besides Factor, the others named in the warrants are Maurice Drucker, H. Heinisius, H. J. Himmelstein and Newton Feldman, all officers of the concern.

OIL FRAUDS KNOWN

Factor, according to reports of postal inspectors, before becoming connected with the Florida Land Company was a factor in a $5,000,000 fraudulent oil deal. The scheme included the buying of large tracts of land in Orange County, Florida, which were later sold in Chicago and other midwestern cities at an average price of $100 a lot. The land was represented, it is charged, with being a suburb of Orlando, Florida.

INDIGESTION—that was his trouble. Often. After nearly every meal.

His daughter heard of a new way to relieve this—simply eating a few Peppermint Life Savers after meals.

It's really wonderful how these little mints do the trick in cases like this.

LUXURIOUS SETTINGS ARE PART OF DOMINION'S BIG
"SLAVE OF FASHION" FILM

An unusual story of the present day, full of suspense and thrills and lavish with luxury, "A Slave of Fashion" comes to the Dominion Theatre this week. It is a Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production upon which no time nor expense were spared.

The story is of the fashionable New York with a girl from a little middle western town suddenly thrust upon the ultra smart section of the sparkling metropolis.

Samuel Shipman, who wrote it directly for the screen, based his story on a real circumstance. In fact it tells a story that might be experienced by anyone.

Hobart Henley directed "A Slave of Fashion" for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer. It has been done on an elaborate scale and many weeks alone were spent on building the sets and designing the costumes.

It is a human story, and yet a powerfully dramatic one with the elemental clash of a woman, typical of the repressed Middle West, surrounded in which she has been reared and a man of the ultra rich New York social set.

Norma Shearer is starred with Lew Cody featured opposite her, while there is a supporting cast which includes Mary Carr, William Haines, Vivian O'Brien, James Corrigan and Miss Dupont.

The story concerns a prim but imaginative girl who has a fiery passion for beautiful clothes, but who has had to suppress her desire for them. When she finds herself in New York and suddenly surrounded by every luxury there is still something lacking.

The man is a wealthy New Yorker who spends much time in Paris and Monte Carlo. He finds no great interest in life, but his perspective changes considerably after he has met the heroine of the story though his passion almost wrecks that which has come to mean a tremendous something in his life.

Hobart Henley and his assistants spent weeks in preparing for the making of "A Slave of Fashion." Deas Meredyth, the scenic artist, worked with the author, Samuel Shipman, and with Mr. Henley in order to get as much as possible into the screen version of the story.

Norma Shearer was chosen for the star role because it called for a girl of great versatility, one who could portray comedy scenes as effectively as the deeply emotional ones.

Lew Cody was selected because he suggested the strength and romance of Nicholas Wentworth. He has already achieved fame as one of the greatest screen lovers and in addition had the suave necessary for the actor to portray Wentworth.

Norma Shearer has definitely established herself by being elevated to stardom and as Katherine Emerson in "A Slave of Fashion," she is given a different role from anything she has heretofore attempted. While Cody seen in several recent pictures as the romantic lover, presents a striking contrast.

"A Slave of Fashion" was photographed by Ben Reynolds. Arthur Smith was assistant to the director and the sets and art direction were under the supervision of Cedric Gibbons.

Others in the cast include William Haines, Vivian O'Brien, Mary Carr and Miss Dupont.

Capitol Musical
Programme Great
Attraction To-day

English Harmony Four and Roy
Williams Appear All Week

"To-night and for the balance of this week the Capitol Theatre have booked as their extra attraction Roy Williams and the English Harmony Four, who will present to the music lovers of this city a musical act entitled, "Musical Comedy Tittbits." This company is comprised of four people who have all pleasing voices, the programme consisting of songs from the latest musical comedies selected to please all tastes.

In addition to this to-night music lovers' night will also be an addition to the programme, the orchestra being under the direction of A. Prescott, and will render during the evening the following numbers in addition to others too numerous to mention:

"Spanish Dances"..... Moskowski
"Serenade Chanson"..... Drigo
"La Paloma"..... Yradier
"Extracts From Carmen"..... Liszt
Fox trot—"Just a Little Drink" Gay

The gifted singers of the Coliseum company will have scope, both for their musical talents and their acting this week, in the ever popular comedy "The Spring Maid," which opens to-night. Following the great success of "Lend Me Your Wife," which created a greater sensation among theatre-goers in Victoria last week than any play that has been offered here for some time, the manager has augmented his company and has gone to considerable expense to repay the confidence of the hundreds in Victoria who have the weekly visit to the Coliseum habit.

Litling, appealing tunes, tasteful scenes and dainty dresses help in the brightness of the "Spring Maid." It offers luxurious relaxation in an atmosphere of charm.

Will Marshall, who is to Victoria what Chaplin is to Hollywood, has a great comedy part. George Olsen has lots of scope for his particular talent. Frank Allwood moves from the managerial office to the boards for the week. George Brydson and Eva Hart have romantic singing parts. As two of the finest singers in Victoria with perfect blending voices they will undoubtedly convey a great appeal to the music lovers. Eileen Allwood makes a welcome re-appearance and will appear in a duet with Max Keith which should make a hit. Ruth Hamilton has a suitable comedy role.

The screaming monologues are some of the hits of the "Spring Maid." Music lovers who know the Coliseum players will look forward with eager anticipation to hearing Eva Hart and George Brydson in the delightful duet "Day Dreams." In addition to the stage offering Mr. Allwood has booked another stellar picture, "Trouping with Ellen," in which a big cast appears in many wonderful scenes to tell the story of stage life.

"Trouping with Ellen" is the delightful screen version of Earl Derr Biggers' Saturday Evening Post story.

Beautiful Helene Chadwick is the star and she has one of the most brilliant casts of the season in her support. It includes Gaston Glass, Mary Thurman, Basil Rathbone, Riley Hatch, Zena Keefe, Kate Blanke, Tyrone Power, John Tansy, Ernest Hilliard, Charles McDonald, Jane Jennings and Esther Banks.

Preacher-Athlete
Is Star in Latest
Columbia Feature

From the paragon to picture studios! That, in a word, is the history of Fred Thomson, F.B.O.'s famous outdoor star.

The history of this sky pilot athlete and movie actor is more interesting than any story ever written for the screen.

Here is a man who is still accepted as the greatest all-around athlete of the present day. He broke the world's record in all-around competition at Princeton in 1912; won the all-around championship of the world in 1911 when Martin Sheridan and Tom Thorpe were in their prime; won it again in 1913; can build a full-sized bull (not a steer); ride anything on four feet, and looks the part of an out-sized Greek God.

He is an ordained Presbyterian minister, former chaplain of the 143rd Field Artillery, and holds the world's hand-grenade throwing record made at the Inter-allied Games in Paris in 1919! A grenadier-chaplain in a field artillery regiment is somewhat unusual, not to say an anomaly; but Fred Thomson is nothing if not unique.

His latest picture, "That Devil Quemade" is coming to the Columbia Theatre to-day.

NORTH WEALD

In spite of having two tons of hay burning behind him, William Jones, of Charles Street, Bermondsey, drove a steam lorry from North Weald village to the open country, so that wooden houses should not be endangered. Epping Fire Brigade after over three hours extinguished the blaze.

Hincks' Offering
Abounds in Fine
Comedy and Song

"Forward Please" Will Keep
Playhouse Patrons in Clutches of Mirth.

Reginald Hincks' offering on the stage next week is entitled "Forward Please." It is an original play with excellent comedy. The music is of the "catchy" type. Mr. Williamson contributes an excellent solo number, which alone would make the evening worth while, and the ever popular Peggy Lewis will be in her element in one of the best comedy singing parts she has had for some time.

The plot deals with the robbing of a safe in a large department store and the troubles of the house detective, Feet (Reg. Hincks) in tracing the stolen money. Mr. Petch as the owner of the store has one of those gruff old man roles which he plays so well. Every member of the cast, which includes, besides those already mentioned, Mona Warren, Harold Bechtel, and the Bennett sisters, has an individual opportunity to do good work. "Midnight Molly" is the screen offering.

An automobile accident is an automobile accident, even if it does happen in the movies. And to prove it,

Evelyn Brent, star of "Midnight Molly," was laid up for three days following an "accident" in which she was run down by a big touring car.

One scene of this thrilling melodrama required that the heroine should be struck by a machine. Miss Brent who has consistently refused to use a double, insisted on playing the sequence herself.

The big car hit Miss Brent with sufficient force to throw her to the

LIVESTOCK DISEASE EXPERIMENTS MADE

London, Aug. 31 (Canadian Press Cable)—The foot and mouth disease research committee has issued its first progress report, which says:
"Although it is now definitely
known small animals can be artificially inoculated with the virus of foot and mouth disease, the committee desires to state that up to the present it found no evidence that the disease could be spread by these small animals either under laboratory or field conditions. Indeed, all attempts to cause the natural spread of the disease among small animals proved abortive."

It is stated the committee has completed arrangements for experiments
on cattle, sheep and pigs at a cattle-
testing station at Pirbright belonging to the Ministry of Agriculture.

ARTISTS RECORD "FOOTLOOSE"—"Footloose," that tuneful
melody by Carl Rupp which has been widely heralded in connection with "May Seymour (Footloose)" has been recorded on Q.R.S. rolls.
Max Kortlander, standing and Victor Arden, recording artists, say it is a "wow" of a song.

YOUNG ACTRESS HURLED FROM HANDCAR FILMING SCENES ON DESERT

A scene not in the picture was interjected between sequences
of "The Desert Flower," latest of Colleen Moore's First National picturizations, now showing at the Capitol Theatre. The celebrated flapper star was hurled from a railroad handcar right into a hospital cot in Hollywood.

The accident, which occurred while Miss Moore's company,
under direction of Irving Cummings, was on "location" in the desert country near Barstow, Calif.,
resulted in several dislocated ver-
tebrae and strained neck ligaments.
The picture, as a result, was delayed
five weeks, which period the star
spent in a plaster cast.

Two cameras were trained on a stretch of railroad track to follow
Miss Moore, in the character of Maggie Fortune, as she sped along
on a handcar, first pumping the car
and then, as it gained momentum,
perching on the rising and falling handbars.

To save Miss Moore the arduous
work of working the mechanism, a task sufficient to tire even a strong man, Director Cummings had an invisible wire attached to the handcar,
and had it drawn by several men well
out of the radius of the lens.

All went well until Miss Moore
mounted the handbars and began bobbing up and down on them. At this point the track made a slight decline. The slope, to the eyes, seemed inconsiderable, but it was sufficient to permit the car to race ahead of the men pulling it.

The faster the car traveled, the more rapidly the handbars shot up and down. Miss Moore in her position was unable to check the speed and felt herself fast losing her grip.

Suddenly, without warning, she was virtually catapulted into the air.
A shout went up and a dozen men rushed madly to the spot, seeking to save the star. But luckily as she cata-pulted, she turned over and landed in a sitting position on the rear edge of the car.

After the car had been stopped, the star gamely finished the scene and worked several days longer before pains compelled her to stop and examination revealed the extent of her injuries.

ORIGINALS TO RETURN IN NEW REVUE

Soldier Stars to Present
"Thumbs Up" in November
With J. Goode Back in Ranks

After an absence of a year from the Originals, which time he spent
at his home on the Pacific Coast, Jimmie Goode, Canada's foremost
blackface comedian, is back again
with his old theatrical comrades and is busy rehearsing with the boys in Toronto for their new revue,
"Thumbs Up," which makes it's premier showing in Barrie on September
7, prior to a long tour of the Prairie
Provinces and the Pacific Coast.
They will appear in Victoria early in November at the Royal Victoria Theatre.

All the other favorites of this popular Canadian soldier company will be
with the organization again this season, including Gene Pearson, who has the distinction of being the world's greatest impersonator of beautiful women; Bob Anderson, the star comedian who became famous
over night last year; Alan Murray,
another old favorite; Bertram Langley, of "Floral Dance" fame; Jerry Brayford, the well known tenor;
Percy Campbell, who has previously been the Originals' business manager
and who appears on stage this year
for the first time since the war days
in France; Lionel Broadway, the popular juvenile; Thomas Dunn, Victoria's own celebrated baritone
who has made a tremendous hit with this company; Leonard Young, as before, is the producer of the revue and also responsible for much of the music, skits and lyrics in "Thumbs Up." A brilliant newcomer this year is Stuart Callaghan, an exponent of the art of terpsichore.

BROTHERHOOD HOLDS SUCCESSFUL SHOW

The flower and vegetable show
was held under the auspices of the Victoria West Brotherhood at Semple's Hall, Saturday afternoon; proved a great success both financially and in attendance.

J. L. Hillborn judged the flowers and vegetables.

tendence of Mr. Teasdale.

vised by Mesdames Montleith and Mercer.

Ice cream and confectionery were dispensed by Mrs. Minor and Miss Lofie. Tea and light refreshments were managed by Mrs. J. M. Cooper
and the Misses Rodgers.

THE REAL BEGINNING

After the episode of the Harper's dinner party, where she had gone alone, as her dinner partner, Midge made no further protest to her husband when he duties at the hospital prevented him from escorting her to social functions.

It was an ominous sign, which hampered, if he had not completely, in his work and too completely, the trustful of the woman he worshipped, might have recognized.

But it so happened that he was blind to the fate toward which his matrimonial happiness was drifting. He was only thankful that Midge seemed happy in her social life, and that the heavy and constant demands upon his own time—at this period he had already become one of the leading surgeons in the East—were not depriving her of the pleasures she craved.

He didn't know that she was seeing Stanley Cartwright almost daily. Alma Cartwright had been practically withdrawn from society. Her interests centered round her children. For diversion she had books and music in the big house on the Square. She attended lectures and concerts in the afternoon, gave charitable assistance to several hospital boards to which she belonged, but night generally found her at her own fireside, as a companion to the boy and girl who represented her life and faith and hope.

The sweetness and purity which was indisputably a part of her character, prevented her from suspecting her husband's wandering fancies. In her heart, she believed only that she and Cartwright, being of different temperament, must find their amusements in different fields. If he preferred dinners and dances and supper parties until late in the night, she saw no reason for depriving him of a taste which she couldn't honestly share.

It was at this point that she made the mistake for which she suffered bitterly and unwarrantedly for many years afterward. Midge, on the other hand, was aware of what she was doing and had become quite reckless about it. Cartwright's admiration for her, her had gone to her head like wine. She knew she was beautiful. Many men had told her so. But the fascination of Cartwright was a novel experience. Here, she told herself, was a specimen of man, much older than herself, traveler, wealthy, cultured, a connoisseur of women. And he had singled her out for his attention—attention which she realized had deepened from a light flirtation into a serious attachment.

She had hoped for this very thing to happen, merely at first to flatter her, insatiable vanity. Later she came to realize that she was caught in a trap of her own setting. She was riding in the park alone one Spring afternoon, when Cartwright joined her, quite by accident. Patricia was to have accompanied her, but at the last moment she had been detained. Long afterward, when Midge told her about the events of that afternoon, Patricia reproached herself bitterly.

Midge's horse was picking his way daintily down a steep, stony path.

when Cartwright, on a shining bay, came out of a side lane. For a moment, Midge didn't see him. She was sitting there, musing, reining slack, eyes dreaming with the spell of Spring. Even she could not have realized how lovely she was in that setting—a fresh and radiant as the Spring which unfurled tender, green leaves on the trees around her and painted the blush on the cherry blossoms over her head.

Cartwright reined in his horse and looked at her for a long moment before he removed his hat and called her name.

When they met face to face, their eyes flashed. His were full of a new wonder. The world weary expression was gone temporarily. He didn't look like a man who boasted that he had every experience in the world except death. Rather, for the moment, he seemed a young lover who looks into Paradise with a consciousness of awe.

Midge herself was frightened. It seemed to her that the beating of her heart would startle her and she raised one slim, gauntleted hand to her breast while a wave of crimson flooded her throat and cheeks.

Because she rarely blushed, it embarrassed her. She managed a laugh and said, a trifle breathlessly: "My word, but you startled me! Do you generally come loping out of by-paths like that and frighten poor, lone girls to death?"

For a minute he didn't answer her, while the look in his eyes slowly faded. Then he said in a matter-of-fact way: "Sorry. I was just as surprised as you. But it's luck after all, for I was just cursing my fate for having to ride alone this beautiful afternoon. May I join you? And will you stop with me for tea and that little roadhouse on the edge of the park?"

"Of course," she agreed promptly. "How nice of you to think of it. I was a bit lonely myself this afternoon. Patricia failed me and I loathe riding alone. You know, the Spring does get into one's blood, doesn't it?"

"It does," he agreed gravely. "I didn't think it could—any more—for me. But you have taught me something about myself to-day. Do you know what it is?"

For once in her life, Midge was honest and courageous. The pity of it is that it should have been at the wrong time. But she lifted starry eyes to his and said softly: "Yes—and you've taught me too."

That was how it began.

A GLIMPSE OF THE FEET OF CLAY

Lila came home from school for the Easter holidays. She was radiant with the prospect of seeing Midge again. It hurt her to find her sister so completely engrossed in her social affairs to give Midge a moment's attention. She had been disappointed bravely and pretended to be perfectly content when Midge had her come in occasionally for luncheon and listened abstractedly to her chatter about her life at school.

One afternoon, she pleaded: "Please, Midge, come and sing for me just for a few minutes. It's been so long since I've heard you and you know I love it."

Midge made an impatient gesture. "Lila, do be a dear and let me off. I've a tea engagement and a dinner to-night and the hairdresser's coming any moment. Some other time, you funny little kid."

Lila turned her head away to hide the tears.

"I'm going back to school day after to-morrow, you know."

"To-morrow, then," Midge promised. "Come around tea time and I'll sing anything you ask."

But the following day, when Lila arrived, there was no Midge in the drawing room.

"Madame has not yet returned," the maid informed her. "Did she leave a message for me? Was I to wait?"

"There was no message," she was told.

Lila bit her lip, hesitated a moment, and decided to wait. She couldn't believe that Midge would deliberately have broken her promise, especially since it was her last opportunity to see her sister before she returned to school. She knew Midge's light disregard for time, so she waited a full half hour before her heart began to be leaden in her breast and she was willing to admit to herself that Midge had failed.

She was on the point of ringing for the maid and telling her that she was going, when she heard a motor stop at the curb.

She hurried to the window and pushed aside the curtains. Alighting from a handsome limousine—not the Bannister's car—was Midge, exquisitely gowned as always, in grey with orchids at her breast. A man, holding the hand she proffered in farewell, was bending over it with uncovered head. Midge was laughing, flushed, radiant.

While she hurried up the front steps, Lila watched from between the curtains. She recognized the man now as the one she had seen in the newspaper photograph, taken with Midge in Florida, the one her room-mate had described as married and a rotter, a pursuer of women.

Something like hate rose in her heart as she saw him follow Midge with his eyes. Until the front door closed behind her, he remained motionless there by the open door of his car.

When Midge came into the drawing room, Lila was sitting quietly before the empty fireplace. She lifted somber eyes to her sister and tried to smile.

"You poor child!" Midge exclaimed penitently. "I'm a beast to have kept you waiting so long, but I thought I'd never be able to break away. I had a luncheon engagement to-day, you know, but I never dreamed people would talk and talk."

"Was it Mr. Cartwright who did the talking?" Lila asked quietly.

Midge was taken aback. "What do you know about Mr. Cartwright?" she asked sharply.

"I saw him outside just now. I recognized him from a photograph of you and him on the beach in Florida."

"Discerning child!" Midge shrugged airily. "Ah well, Stan is distinguished looking enough to be recognized by a school girl."

Now wait until I dispose of my hat and gloves and I'll sing for you."

Lila rose. "Never mind about that, now. It's late and you'll probably be wanting to dress for dinner. I only waited because I wanted to say goodbye. I'm leaving to-morrow, you know."

Midge slipped her arms around her sister coaxingly. "Now don't be cross, just because I was detained. One can't break away from a luncheon party whenever one wants, you know."

"Was Mrs. Cartwright at the luncheon?" Lila demanded suddenly. Quick anger flared in Midge's eyes. "What business is it of yours?"

"None—except one of the girls at school told me some things about Mr. Cartwright. I don't think he can be a very nice man. I had a frightful row with her because she made a horrid remark about you. I haven't spoken to her since—but you see, then I didn't know that Mr. Cartwright was a friend of yours."

Midge laughed to cover her dismay. "You little idiot! Fancy a child of your age being able to advise her older sister about men. My word, that's funny! Now see here, Lila, she assumed sudden sternness. "You must forget all this nonsense. It's the most ridiculous thing I ever heard of. But you're likely to injure me if you go around babbling in this silly fashion. Now, stay and have tea like a sensible girl. I'm going to sing for you, even if you close your ears."

So a truce was patched up, but Lila never forgot that afternoon. It was her first real disillusionment. To be continued.

Public officials, professional and business men, and wet and dry partisans, with almost one accord, the statement said, declared 4.4 did not satisfy those who wanted a stronger alcoholic liquor. They called it "four-disappoint-four." It did not reduce the number of illicit sellers. In some places it increased them. It did not wean the moderate or habitual drinkers of hard liquor to 4.4, the statement said.

BELL ISLAND SHIPS BIG TOTAL OF ORE

St. John's, Nfld., Aug. 31—Ore shipments from Bell Island, known as the world's greatest iron reserve, from the opening of the present navigation season up to August 6 totaled 554,797 tons. The total shipments last year amounted to 632,804 tons for the twelve-month period. Shipments to Holland and Germany this year amounted to 430,954 tons, and to Canada 153,845 tons, a total of 584,797, whereas last year the greater portion of the entire output went to Canada. The St. John's Daily News points out in an editorial that shipments to Germany and Holland so far this year are 65.7 per cent greater than last year, when the total for the twelve-month period was 206,029 tons. The newspaper also points with satisfaction to the showing of shipments to Canada this year in view of the fact that the chief user, the steel plant in Sydney, and its operators, rested in the shadow of a complete tie-up of the Nova Scotia coal mines for a period of five months.
